PROGRAMME NOTES

Suite From Memory Lane is a 4 movement suite for brass quintet. I chose the assortment of instruments because I wanted to explore the different instrument groupings I could create with the quintet. I chose the name Suite From Memory Lane because each movement reminded me of separate parts of my memory of school life.

The first movement is an Intrada. I really wanted to develop on the idea of fanfare that an intrada gives, as well as establishing a very clear start to the suite. I wanted to focus on how I could develop ideas across the ensembles, as well as in individual parts.

The second movement is a March. The march is best described as dark. It has very powerful moments with strong textures and minor melodies. My goal was to play with the structure of a march, as my March is in the form of ABABACA, purposefully steering away from a rondo form.

The third movement is a Waltz. The Waltz is supposed to be everything the March is not. It has light textures, and a lot brighter melodies. The two movements contrast with each other in every way that they can. Also, I wanted to disrupt one of the core characteristics of the waltz, not using the "oom cha cha" accompaniment until halfway through the movement.

The fourth movement is a Fanfare. However, it is very atypical. While writing the Fanfare, I was using "weirdness" as a parameter instead of an overarching description for the movement. While listening, it is clear when the piece moves between being "weird" and not, as it rises and falls throughout the movement.
